A Milk Station has been opened at the Health Centre for the Nutrition Class and is being financed by the Christmas Seal Organization. There are 48 public school children in the class and for the past two weeks the smaller children, 24 in number, have been supplied with milk daily. There have been one or two extraordinary satisfactory results and all are showing substantial gains. Miss Lewis, the very efficient economic worker from State College, has been untiring in her efforts to instruct mothers and under-nourished children in regard to their diet and care, with results that have been most gratifying.

An educational film sent by the State Department of Health will be shown December 27 at the Richelieu Theatre for the benefit of the women of the town.

Members of the various departments of the Health Work have Christmas Seals for sale. Don't fail to do your bit in this way.

Public Tuberculosis Clinic

If you are threatened with Tuberculosis, if you have frequent attacks of weariness, a persistent little cough, or loss of weight, either or several of these symptoms, do not lose time! See a doctor at once or go to the Tuberculosis Clinic in the Health Centre Room, Brode Building, Fridays from 1 to 3 p. m. To prevent tuberculosis live a hygienic life, avoid house dust and impure air, also raw milk and cream, and eat nourishing foods. You can obtain our Twelve Health Rules for the asking.

Would Have Headed Pennsylvania Supreme Court in January.

Chambersburg, Pa., Nov. 25.—Justice John Stewart of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania was struck by a trolley car here tonight and instantly killed. The accident happened in front of Justice Stewart's residence. He was returning home after a Thanksgiving dinner at the home of his daughter, Dr. Helen Stewart who lives across the street.

The Justice who was eighty-one years old and quite feeble, apparently did not see the approaching car. According to the motorman, he stepped directly in front of the trolley when it was only a few feet away. He was thrown several feet, his skull was fractured and he was dead when picked up.

Justice Stewart is survived by five daughters, Mary L. and Anna W. Stewart, who lived with their father, Mrs. Charles Farber of South Carolina; Janet Stewart, a Philadelphia newspaper writer, and Dr. Helen Stewart, and a brother, George H. Stewart of Shippensburg, Pa.

Born Nov. 4, 1839, at Shippensburg, Justice Stewart was graduated from Princeton in 1857. He was admitted to the bar in 1861 and came to Chambersburg the same year. He served throughout the Civil War as Adjutant of the 135th Pennsylvania Regiment. He was a member of the State Senate from 1881 to 1884 and was one of the two surviving members of the State Constitutional Convention in 1874. In 1888 he was elected Judge of Franklin County and was re-elected in 1893. He was appointed to the Supreme Court in June 1902, by Gov. Pennypacker. Next January he would automatically have become Chief Justice of that tribunal.

SHIELDS—LESLIE

On Thanksgiving evening, November 25, 1920 at the home of Mr. Bailey of Juliana Street, Mr. Howard P. Shields of East Brady and Miss Edith K. Leslie of Arnold, Penna. were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. J. T. Bell of the Methodist church.

The best wishes of their many friends are extended to them.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN

BY THE STANDARD OIL

Standard Oil cash dividends this year have set a new high record, going well beyond the previous high mark set in 1913. A comparison of dividends for 1913, 1919 and 1920 shows:

1913 $107,795,361

1919 106,092,086

1920 115,220,730

A large party of the increase was due to the payment of more than $13,000,000 on various new issues of preferred stocks. The company's record for the last nine years shows returns to stockholders as follows:

1912-20 Cash payments $807,725,565

1912-20 Stock dividends 288,000,000

291,400,000 d. 8vz 1vs09 a-movs

1912-20 New stock

at par 291,400,000

The total amount of returns to stockholders would be placed at more than a billion and a half dollars if stocks given as dividends were figured at its current estimated value instead of year.

Barney Billings caught Gape Allison peeping through his back garden fence yesterday. It is expected as soon as the dark nights come he will dig his money up and move it to some other burying ground.

NEW SALESMAN WITH KOONTZ MUSIC HOUSE

Mr. William Pate who, for the past year has been identified with the Koontz Music House as salesman and tuner of pianos and who during that time made for himself a host of friends has severed his connection with the above house and has entered the employ of the King Motor Company. Mr. Pate is a mechanical genius and this added to his cordial disposition made him the most valued employee of the Koontz Music House. Mr. Koontz has secured to take his place Mr. James W. Hartman of Schellsburg, Pa. Mr. Hartman is a graduate of the musical department of Otterbein University. During the past two years he has been Director of Music at Stonewall Jackson College, Abingdon, Va. teaching voice, history of music, theory, harmony, counterpoint and also piano. He is a vocalist of more than ordinary ability having been in tenor soloist with various glee clubs quartettes and Chautauquas musical organizations. Besides having taken the principal part in the rendering of several light operas. He has had exceptional opportunities for training in the line of piano tuning having spent considerable time in the Grinnell factory, Windsor, Ontario, under Robert Ayleworth, inventor and designer of instruments and piano tuners tools. While he will give special attention to the sale of pianos for the Koontz Music House and will answer all calls for the tuning of instruments it is also probable that in the near future he will organize a class of pupils to whom he will give lessons on the piano forte.

Local Representative Goes to Phila.

Morselle W. Corle, local representative of The R. L. Dollings Company with offices in Ridewater Building, is in Philadelphia attending an important meeting of the representatives of that organization. Since the Bedford branch office was established last January, Mr. Corle, with the assistance of his special representatives has built up a large clientele, practically every section of the county being represented among the several hundred customers who are investing their surplus funds in Dollings securities, backed up by the service rendered by the Dollings institution. Mr. Corle has also qualified as a Century Club member, having oversold his yearly quota for the county, which entitles him to a brief pleasure trip to Cleveland, Ohio, the early part of January.

The company is contemplating opening an office in Everett sometime within the coming year, in order to meet the demand for its service in the South eastern section of the county.

Mr. H. E. England, of Colerain township, the well known collector for the Friend's Cove Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., will be in charge of the new office.

ANSWER TO HEALTH SCHOOL QUESTION

Question 1—Name the disease responsible for Hunchback?

Answer—Tuberculosis.

Question 2—Name a contributing cause?

Answer—An injury to the bone, often slight.

Question 3—Name some early symptoms of Tuberculosis of the Spine?

Answer—Pain, stooping with a stiff back, a lump over the back bone.

The subject of the next lesson is "Rabies" (or Hydrophobia). The discovery of Pasteur has robbed the disease of its terrors, but its early recognition is necessary.

Rabies is contracted from the bite of a rabid animal, the virus of the disease being introduced into the wound with the saliva of the animal.

A rabid dog, even before the symptoms of madness are manifest, may communicate the disease by licking a hand upon which there is an abrasion.

The Brighter Dawning

Although the world is full of trouble, Keeps looking for the brighter day

When cloud of sorrow will be passing And peace and joy will come our way Around the clouds will silver linings Be shining so that we can see The brighter dawning for the morrow For all mankind, will surely be.

There ne'er in life will be a night-time,

So dark but day will follow soon; No winter-time so cold and dreary But after while will come sweet June And so in like there is no sorrow But what will sometime pass away.

With some bright dawning there'll be coming Around for you, a brighter day.

St. John's Reformed Church

BURNS—HOOD

On last Saturday morning at the Methodist parsonage, Mr. Denny M. Burns and Ida C. Hood both of Ligonier were united in marriage by the Rev. J. T. Bell, pastor of that church. Their many friends extend to them their hearty congratulations.

ANNUAL PRODUCTION SHOW AT HARRISBURG

In connection with and as a part of the Fifth Annual Farm Products Show at Harrisburg, January 24—28, many State Agricultural organizations will hold conventions and business meetings and distinct agricultural organizations will be the greatest assemblage of its kind in the history of the state.

The organization which will hold meetings during the time the show is in progress is as follows:

State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania Breeders' Association, Pennsylvania Potato Growers' Association, Pennsylvania Bee Keepers' Association, Pennsylvania State Poultry Association, Tobacco Growers' Association, Pennsylvania Nurseries Association, and the Pennsylvania Sheep Breeders and Wool Growers Association.

In addition the Pennsylvania State Veterinary-Medical Association will hold its annual meeting in connection with the show, they being closely allied to the agricultural interests of the State.

Aside from the business meeting of the above organizations there will be educational programs arranged for by each and speakers of State and National reputation are being furnished by the State Dept. of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania State College.

Every available hall in Harrisburg has been secured by the Department of Agriculture for holding the various meetings.

The show will be officially opened on Tuesday morning, January 25th, and will close Friday afternoon, January 28th.

Secretary of Agriculture, Fred Rasmussen, is cooperating with all the counties in an effort to obtain large exhibits of farm products. The apples exhibit promises to be the largest ever.

RED CROSS SEALS

Harrisburg, Pa., November 29—

The opening of the Christmas Seal sale today in Pennsylvania was attended by such large initial purchases that a flood of orders for additional Seals and Health Bonds poured into State Seal Headquarters.

New supplies of Seals sent out already have totaled over two and three-quarter millions.

Among additional orders for Seals from county tuberculosis organizations are the following:

Monroe, 30,000; Westmoreland, 260,000; Cambria, 650,000; Armstrong, 30,000; Warren, McKean, Potter, Cameron, Elk and Forest, 500,000; Adams, 100,000; Perry, 10,000; Columbia, 50,000; Lower Merion, 100,000; Schuylkill, 20,000; Chester, 200,000; Fayette, 200,000; Greene, 130,000; Lower Jefferson, 10,000; Easton, 20,000; Du-

Cumberland, 16,000; Lycoming, 20,000; 20,000; Northumberland (town), 3,000; Coatesville, 50,000; and Mount Carmel, 150,000.

GIRL WHO FINDS RING GETS MONEY AND KISS

Miss Blanche Woolf, fiancée of Hetzel Pownall is happy again. For nearly twenty-four hours she thought that her diamond engagement ring which she left Saturday afternoon in one of the wash rooms in the Port Cumberland Hotel, was gone for good.

Miss Elizabeth Barham, of 5 Bellevue avenue is happy too—happy in the thought that she has made Miss Woolf happy again and happy in the possession of fifty dollars which she hadn't exactly expected.

Miss Barham, it should be explained found Miss Woolf's ring, but did not know to whom it belonged. While Miss Woolf was inserting an ad in the Daily News and hurrying to Ross Wenrick, day clerk at the Fort Cumberland to tell him of the loss, Miss Barham was trying hard to locate the owner. When the ad appeared in the lost columns of the News yesterday morning, Miss Barham got into communication with Miss Woolf and the ring was returned.

Wenrick, Miss Barham and Miss Woolf were in the happy group when Miss Woolf again received her ring. Miss Woolf was so elated that she kissed Miss Barham—and she also made her a gift of $50.

Lecture by Hon. John G. Woolley

On Friday evening December 10th Hon. John G. Woolley of National fame as a platform lecturer will deliver his great Chautauqua Lecture in the Methodist Church, Bedford, Pa.

Subject: "When Good Men and Women Rule the World."

As a lawyer, editor, historian, scholar, lecturer, reformer, and prophet of the new citizenship Mr. Woolley has stood in the front rank of the Nation's truly great men.

For a number of years he has been one of the most prominent figures in the great Anti-Saloon League Movement.

Count it one of the rarest privileges of your life to hear John G. Woolley next Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Methodist Church. Admission free.

"Good morning" says one croak to another these days. "Did you have a crime these days."

LITTLE TALKS ON PENNA. FORESTS

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has just the same obligation to keep down destruction by fire in the woods of the state as any municipal fire department has to keep down the destruction of buildings and other property by fire. The act of 1915 created the bureau of fire protection in the Department of Forestry for that very purpose.

This bureau is just the same as the fire department in a city. But it cannot do its work without the necessary equipment and fire-fighting force.

The fire department of a borough or city has its steamers, its hook and ladder trucks, its chemical engines and so on, and what is most important, it has its firemen. The Department of Forestry has little equipment and few men.

This is because the various legislatures have overlooked the real needs of the forests and have failed to appropriate anything like the amount of money necessary to carry out—even to a small degree—the work the department knows how to do, and wants to do, and would do if it had the equipment and the men, which the legislature ought to give it the money to secure.

We do not need chemical engines, hook and ladder trucks, etc., to fight fires in the woods—but we do need roads, fire trails, observation towers, telephone lines and men. These can only be secured with money, and the money must come from the legislature.

Fire towers should be in every forest. On the forests now owned by the state we need at least 175 towers. Of these 75 should be steel, and 100 wood.

The fact is that the state has just 53 towers, 18 steel, and 35 wood, and four of these steel towers and six of the wooden towers, while they are used by state foresters for observation, are on private lands and were built by private associations.

So the record stands. The state forests have forty-three fire towers where they should have a hundred and seventy-five.

In other words, we are a hundred and thirty-five fire towers short because the legislature has failed to see that the saving of our forests from fire is one of the biggest things that can be done for the Commonwealth.

Fortunately for Pennsylvania our present Governor sees the need of greatly increased appropriation for the department of forestry. He has said that the department should have for fire control alone more money than it now has for all purposes.

I hope that every member of the next legislature will see the wisdom of the Governor's statement, and I hope that every citizen will ask him member of the legislature and his state senator to support the Governor in his plan to restore forest production in Pennsylvania.

Fire towers, which I have dwelt in this article, are only a part of the equipment for fire fighting which we need in the forests. We need men too, and we must have money to pay them.

SILVER WEDDING EVENT AT FISHERTOWN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman C. Harr, prominent residents of Fishertown, Bedford county, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday. Their children, grandchildren, friends and other relatives of the couple gathered at the hospitable home, and the day was spent in a very pleasant manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harr received a number of handsome and useful gifts, as well as personal and written congratulations from their many friends.

Lyman C. Harr and Miss Agnes Viola Prough, were married Thanksgiving day, Nov. 28, 1895, at Hollidaysburg. Mr. Harr is a prosperous farmer and he and his wife have reared a family of eight, showing that married life is a glorious success if properly lived.

It is quite notable that Mr. Harr's parents celebrated their 52nd anniversary recently and Mrs. Harr's father and mother their 51st anniversary. The former, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Harr of Alum Bank, Bedford county, were married 52 years ago June 26, 1920, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Prough were wedded 51 years ago Aug. 19 of the present year.

REPUBLICANS SHORT

Will H. Hays has issued a call to the Republicans of the Nation to contribute to a deficit of $1,500,000. That is a nice sum to overlap. Suppose they would have been defeated? What would they have done then?

Of course since they have won they can easily collect it. All they need to do is the usual old-time method, or Mark Hanna style, back to "normalcy" practices of going to prospective office seekers and make them contribute. Bedford has a few who have never contributed anything. They might be induced now, if they have it to spare.

Harding says, era of prosperity dawns on America. For instance 70c corn, 40c oats, $1.00 wheat, 50c a day labor. Empty dinner pail where full ones have been recently. He says nation is emerging from clouds. We suppose he means the clouds of campaign he made during the campaign.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D.,
Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 5

THE GROWTH OF THE KINGDOM.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 13:24-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—Pret not thyself because of evil-doers.—Ps. 37:1.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Gal. 6:6-10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Story About
Good Seed and Bad Seed.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of the Wheat and the Tares.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Wheat and Tares.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—How the Kingdom of Heaven Grows.

The parables of this chapter set forth in a graphic way the condition of affairs in the interval between Christ's going away and His coming again.

I. The Parable of the Wheat and Tares (vv. 24-30, cf. 36-43).

1. The Sowers. (1) The Son of Man (v. 37). He is the One who sows the good seed. The field in which they are sown is the world. (2) The Devil
(v. 39). He is in a peculiar sense Christ's enemy. He intensely hates Him, and with relentless energy is striving to defeat His purpose in saving men. While men slumber, he sows tares among the wheat.

2. The growing crops. They are not easily distinguished while growing, but the effects produced when eaten are quite different. The wheat is wholesome, but the tares produce illness. The chief danger in the tares lies in their resemblance to wheat. The chief danger of the devil is that he strives to imitate God.

3. The harvest. There comes a time when the fruitage of the growing crops shall be gathered. For the tares there is a furnace of fire where there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.
The righteous shall be gathered into the Lord's garner and shall shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of the Father.

II. The Parable of the Mustard
Seed (vv. 31, 32).

1. Its important beginning. It begins as the least of all seeds and grows to be the greatest among herbs. The parentage and humble circumstances of the King greatly perplexed the people. That twelve unlettered fishermen should be selected as His royal advisers is still more amazing. The prophecy said concerning Him that He should be despised, rejected, forsaken.

2. Its vigorous growth. From very small beginnings the influence of the Christ has gone forth so that there is no power or influence so great as that of Christianity.

3. Its lodging capacity. The birds which find lodgment in the tree do not represent the children of men which find safety and salvation in the church.
Birds constitute no part of the tree.
The bird is something foreign to and independent of the tree. The branches increase the growth of the tree, but birds are injurious and burdensome to it. They are predatory—waiting to pluck the tender buds or to prey upon the ripened fruit. The effect of such lodging is evil, blighting and spoiling to the tree.

III. The Parable of the Leavened
Meal (v. 33).

1. The meal. Meal has a wholesome and nutritious effect. It was used in one of the sweet-savor offerings, which typified Christ (Lev. 2:1-3, R. V.); it was food for the priests (Lev. 6:15-17, R. V.); Abraham had Sarah knead a cake out of three measures of meal for the angelic messengers (Gen.
18:6); Solomon's royal table was provided with meal (I Kings 4:22); Elijah was fed upon a cake made of meal (II Kings 4:41); Elisha used meal as an antidote for the poison of death in the pot (II Kings 4:38-41).

2. The woman. The woman is not the head of the home, but its administrator. Her responsibility is to take the bread provided by the head, prepare and distribute it to the children.
In Scripture we find false doctrine being taught by a woman (Rev. 2:20).
Dealing with doctrine is forbidden to woman (I Tim. 2:12). In I Tim. 4:1-3; II Tim. 2:17, 18; 4:3, 4; II Pet. 2:1-3, we find that apostasy will be brought in through false teachings within the ranks of God's people. The meaning, then, of the parable is that the true doctrine, the meal given for the nourishment of the children of the kingdom (II Pet. 2:2; I Tim. 4:6), would officially be corrupted by false doctrine. The children's food is corrupted by the mother.

3. The leaven. In Scripture, leaven is invariably a type of evil. Let the following examples suffice as proof:
(1) All through the Old Testament leaven is a continual and unvarying type of evil (Ex. 12:15; Lev. 2:11).
(2) Jesus himself makes leaven to denote sin (Matt. 16:6, 12; Mark 8:15).
(3) Paul uses leaven in its usual biblical sense (I Cor. 5:6-8; Gal. 5:8, 9).

Nothing Too Little.
Our Lord teaches that nothing is too little to be ordered by our Father, nothing too little in which to see His hand, nothing which touches our souls too little to accept from Him, nothing too little to be done for Him. Since the hairs of our head are all numbered, so is every throb or shoot of pain, every beating or aching of the heart. Every tear which starts is seen, and if wept to Him is gathered up to Him. Every secret wish and prayer is heard, and every thought or im-

The "U. S." Walrus

Warm—watertight— cleaned in a minute

The three big points which make the "U. S." Walrus so popular

HERE is the overshoe that combines all the qualities you've always wanted! Look it over—it's the U. S. Walrus.

It's an all-rubber overshoe that's absolutely waterproof. It has a warm, snug-fitting fleece lining. It's convenient because you slip it right over your leather shoe—and push it off with your toe when you're through.

Best of all, the U. S. Walrus can be instantly cleaned. You can work for hours in barnyard mire—then a pail of water or a rinse at the pump washes the U. S. Walrus clean—removes every trace of mud from its smooth rubber surface.

Experts have designed it—have made it an overshoe that will stand the roughest wear. At every single point where the wear is hardest, the U. S. Walrus is heavy-ily reinforced. Ask your dealer to show you a pair!

Other types of "U. S." Footwear—built for rough service

U. S. Boots have all the wear and comfort which our 74 years of experience can give them.

U. S. Bootees lace on over the sock like a leather shoe. You can wear them all day long in the wettest weather. Your feet will stay dry and comfortable.

The U. S. line of footwear has a type for every need—arctics, rubbers, "overs." Every one is backed by over half a century of experience. The rubber comes from our own plantations—the whole process of manufacture is supervised by experts.

Always look for the U. S. Seal—it means solid wear and long service for your money.

"U. S." Boots—are made in all sizes and styles: Hip, Half-hip and Knee. In red, black and white.

"U. S." Bootees—Fit
right over your sock.
Two styles, high and low. In red, black and white.

Vast Number of American Communities Assisted.

MANY ACTIVITIES INAUGURATED

Thirty-five States, Pennsylvania
Among Them, Officially Working With Red Cross.

The activities of the American Red Cross for the fiscal year ending June 30 last fulfilling the peace-time obligations of its congressional charter by "mitigating suffering caused by disaster and pestilence, and in devising and carrying on measures for preventing the same," touched, in some form, more than 15,000 American communities.

During the year a Red Cross Department of Health Service has been organized; its Nursing Service has been extended to meet a growing demand for public health nursing until over 36,000 nurses are now on its rolls; its

First Aid to Injured courses have been widely taught, 6000 persons having been awarded First Aid Certificates during the year; and the American Red Cross has been the chief factor in the formation of the League of Red Cross Societies with headquarters in Geneva.

The Department of Health Service was established December 1, 1919. On June 30, 1920, there were in active operation 123 Health Centers, from which radiate innumerable activities designed to improve the health of the community and prevent the spread of disease, while 435 Red Cross Chapters were actively engaged in disease-preventive work.

The Bureau of First Aid to the Injured has issued 6000 certificates to those who have taken regular courses and awarded 465 medals. Ten First Aid contests have taken place in various states, 1500 medallions have been distributed and 775 junior members have been awarded emblems.

Life Saving Service.

The Life Saving, or Water First Aid service has been extended during the past year by the addition of twenty-nine Red Cross Life Saving corps and the enrollment of 1500 new members, of whom 503 are women. There is now a complete woman's corps in this branch of the service.

The Health Department also includes a Bureau of Medical Social Service, which had under its supervision June 30, 1920, 312 Red Cross employees, serving 52 Public Health Hospitals. Of this number 125 are hospital social workers, and during the year 30,422 patients have received from this bureau some form of Red Cross service.

In the Department of Nursing the fiscal year was one of transition from military to civil activities.

Of the 604 nurses attached to the various American Red Cross commissions in Europe when the armistice was signed, all but 116 had returned to the United States by June 30, 1920.
Of those 66 were in Poland, 46 in the Balkans, two in France and two in Bohemia. Six scholarships have been established at King's College.

Nursing Enrollment.

Enrollment in the Red Cross nursing service increased during the year from 35,426 to 36,705. On June 30 there were in active service 504 in the army, 321 in the navy and 943 in the Public Health corps.

In order to increase the number of qualified public health nurses, for which there is urgent demand, 288 scholarships have been established and 67 loans have been made from National Fund to public health nursing. In addition, approximately 250 scholarships have been awarded by the various chapters. Funds have also been given to the University of Minnesota, Peabody College, Tulane University, University of Louisville, and University of California.

Development in class instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick has increased three-fold during the fiscal year, the number having increased from 34,033 to 93,093. During June, 1920, 2000 nurse instructors were conducting classes.

Activities of the Bureau of Nutrition Service include the maintenance of a reserve of home economics women qualified and ready to serve in the event of war, and the promotion of the course of instruction in food selection, nutrition classes for undernourished children and the hot school lunch. During the year 2387 enrolled in this service, 509 as hospital dieti-tians and 1878 as instructors. During the fiscal year a text-book upon this line of work has been issued and 1486 students have been certified.

One of the important results of the work done by the Red Cross Health and Nursing Departments has been that 35 states have practically adopted a uniform method of working in connection with the Red Cross, whereby a bureau of public health nursing has been instituted under the direction of the State Public Health officer.

The part which the American Red Cross took in the organization of the League of Red Cross Societies was purely educational; but in this way it blazed the trail for the League, which aims to extend the distress preventive and constructive brotherhood throughout the world.

TRADE MARK

FARM TRACTOR

The Ford Motor Company have just issued a book called "The Fordson at Work." This book is given free. Call in and get one. If you cannot call, write and we will mail you one without cost. It is no what the Ford Motor Company says about the Fordson Tractor but what the army of users have to say. This book voices the hardest kind of practical experience. It shows in illustration the Fordson Tractor at actual work along some ninety different lines of activity. It shows in these illustrations the wonderful versatility and utility of the Fordson Tractor shows it to be beyond all questions the one bit of machinery that is a necessity, not only on the farm but along many lines of commercial business; especially does it show up the Fordson as a valuable servant on the farm. With it the farmer is relieved of the hard work; because he can take advantage of the weather in preparing his seed bed; he can do it at the right time; the same is true when it comes to harvesting. It solves, to a great extent, the problem of scarcity of labor.

With its wonderful, reliable power, it brings to the farm house all the conveniences, in the way of running water in the house, electric lights, operation of the washing machine, churning, separating the cream from the milk; it assumes and takes to itself the drudgery of farm life both in the field and in the house and it is only a matter of a few years until it will be as universal in its service on the farm as is the farmer himself. It will become a part of farm life; a beneficial part; a profitable part. Get order in for thee's a rush coming.

The Pikestown Preacher in his sermon last Sunday night, asserted that getting rid of liquor has failed to save the men of this community; that they are going to run right on into hell by the momentum gathered while they did have whiskey.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE ITEMS

Harrisburg.—Shot in the stomach when he tripped over some brush and accidentally discharged his shotgun while hunting, Edward Paschall, a fourteen-year-old Harrisburg high school student, is in a critical condition.

Berwick.—J. C. Tubbs, aged fifty-six, dropped dead while at work in the American Car and Foundry company plant.

Thompsontown.—Harvey E. Burris, of this place, has been appointed county road superintendent of Juniata and Mifflin counties.

Uniontown.—Blowing of locomotive whistles within the city limits will be forbidden by an ordinance that is to be rigidly enforced.

Greensburg.—Adam M. Schwerba, an undertaker of McKeesport, was found guilty in criminal court here of manslaughter for the killing of Miss Margaret McGrath, of Athens, O., an art teacher in Norwin High School, who was run down by an automobile driven by Schwerba on April 19 last. The machine, it was alleged, crashed into a party of young people, of whom Miss McGrath was one.

Chambersburg.—Four hundred and more Franklin county teachers joined the State Educational Association.

Uniontown.—Thomas Fritsch, a photographer, had a narrow escape from blindness when in manipulating ultra-violet rays in his studio he applied fifty-five amperes instead of five, as he had intended. He was in his developing room twenty minutes before he discovered the strength of the ray and switched off the power and summoned two physicians. Both eyes were burned, but it is believed the sight will soon become normal.

Dunbar.—When Chief of Police Ross D. May attempted to arrest William Wilson, a negro, wanted on the charge of robbing a Connellsville store, the latter opened fire and wounded the officer before he was overpowered and sent to the county jail at Uniontown. With the blood flowing from a wound in a leg, the officer battled with his man and finally succeeded in arresting him.

West Chester.—William Armstrong, aged sixty-five, formerly employed by the Pennsylvania railroad, was almost instantly killed at his home when he fell upon a rapidly revolving circular saw which he had borrowed from a friend to cut ties into stove lengths. Armstrong and a companion were cutting the ties when the former was overcome by vertigo and fell upon the saw. His companion made an effort to save him, but was too late. He died on the way to the hospital.

Northumberland.—Less than 10 minutes after Police Chief Rhodes had received a request to arrest Private James L. Parks, a soldier at the Army Training School at Carlisle, the young man was arrested in a local poolroom, charged with stealing 17 pay checks belonging to army officers. He had them when searched, but denied the crime. Some had been indorsed, but none had been presented to any person to cash. Parks enlisted from Point township, near here, more than a year ago and had been at the home of his parents for several days.

Uniontown.—Violent cranking of a bulky automobile resulted in the death of F. S. Goodrich, a well-known salesman, who succumbed shortly after he burst a blood vessel in his right arm. Goodrich, who had difficulty in starting the car, attempted to "spin" the crank and, after repeated efforts, he dropped unconscious to the street. He was rushed to his home in Hopwood and died within a short time.

Brownsville.—Because he lost all faith in banks when the First National Bank of Uniontown failed nearly six years ago, Eddie Ponner, a miner at Puritan, is out more than $2000 which for many months he carried in a bag which he wore continually, even while he slept. As he was going to work recently he was accosted by two highwaymen, who ordered him to throw up his hands. When he showed fight they beat him into unconsciousness and when he regained his senses his money belt was missing. Ponner claimed the money represented his lifetime savings. Several men who saw the hold-up feared to interfere.

Uniontown.—Uniontown was gossiping over the shooting at the home of J. L. Brown. As a result of a domestic misunderstanding, Mrs. Brown, one of the city's best known women, is said to have refused her husband admittance to their home. While Brown was attempting to force the front door his little daughter telephoned the police that burglars were trying to break in. When Brown failed to heed repeated warnings of his wife, it is alleged, she fired through the panel of the door, narrowly missing her husband. The police patrol arrived in time to prevent further shooting.

Hazleton.—Council has given all city employees an average increase of $1 a month in pay, effective January 1.

Waynesburg.—Charles E. Milder, an employe of the West Penn Power company, was electrocuted while at work at the top of a telegraph pole here.

Danville.—Preliminary steps have been taken for the organization of a farm bureau in Montour county.

Uniontown.—Muffled up against the cold, John Battis, a Pennsylvania track-walker here, failed to hear an approaching train and was run down and killed.

Mifflin.—Walking in from a field where he had been husking corn, William Hosler, a Mifflin township farmer, fell dead and was found by his wife.

Lewistown.—Hit between the eyes by the crank of his auto truck when the engine backfired as he was cranking it, Nat Comfort, of this place, sustained concussion of the brain.

Connellsville.—Found delirious from drinking whisky, Frank Conett, a lad, told the police that he and other boys stole a quantity of liquor, drank some and have the rest of it concealed.

Lewistown.—By abandoning the war-time bonuses the Susquehanna Silk company, of this place, cuts wages 15 per cent, also serving notice that it rests with employees whether the mill operates at all.

Pittsburgh.—Ira C. Stevenson and Robert Schell, former members of the state police, were found guilty here of unlawfully possessing and transporting whisky. The trial, which was held before Federal Judge Orr, lasted two days. Prohibition Agent McCarthy testified that the two former officers seized a truck containing whisky on a road, near Altoona. While the truck and whisky were in possession of them it was seized by McCarthy.

Connellsville.—John Stofan, aged eighteen, was shot and instantly killed while walking along a road from Wickhaven to Perryopolis. It is said he was on his way to deposit $400 in bank at Perryopolis, but no money was found on his person. State police are hunting his assailants.

Pittsburgh.—S. H. May, of Sharon, and Steve Kuminsky, of Farrell, who reported to the police here that they had been held up and robbed of $1000 and twelve cases of liquor, were held by the police awaiting disposition of their cases. The men, it was alleged, told conflicting stories when they reported the hold-up to the police and were held as suspicious persons. A charge of operating an automobile in a reckless manner was lodged against Kuminsky, driver of the car. No trace of the robbers has been found by the police.

Connellsville.—Councilman Fred Cyphers prevented the looting of his place of business when he engaged in combat with two negroes who attempted to hold him up, after his clerks had gone. The negroes were being shown a revolver when Cyphers was attacked. He was knocked down but managed to get up and put up such a fight that the negroes fled. They were traced to the Connellsville freight yards where they are believed to have boarded a train going west.

Bridgeport.—Because robbers were so successful in a raid made at the home of John Murray, who lives alone near Henderson Station, a return trip was made, with the result that the aged watchman, who is 70 years old, is badly injured as a result of the beating he received from the four negro thieves who forced an entrance into his home. On the first visit $40 in money was stolen. Nothing but clothing was obtained the second time, nearly $600 concealed in the little home being overlooked by the thugs in their search.

Greensburg.—Firemen on board the big engine from No. 3 company went screeching down Main street in an effort to locate the fire for which an alarm had been turned in from box 31. They found a fat colored woman heaving at them from an open doorway. "I done outened this fire mah-self," she announced.

Bloomersburg.—Rather than pay a fine of $2 and costs for not sending his daughter to school, Michael Rosputinski, a Roaring Creek township farmer, spent five days in jail here.

Harrisburg.—Construction of emergency office buildings in the Capitol Park extension here will be postponed until spring.

Greensburg.—Frank Friedschmann of this place, was seriously burned when the gasoline tank of an automobile in which he was riding exploded.

Harrisburg.—Forty-three hospitals in Pennsylvania met the standards of the American College of Surgeons and only one had a condition, according to a report received at the governor's office. This is the best report ever made upon Pennsylvania hospitals. Of 52 New York State hospitals, it is said, 29 are conditioned. In all 377 hospitals in the country were studied by the institution. Letters received by the governor give credit to the state bureau of medical education and licensure for insistence upon certain standards in obtaining the results.

Pittsburgh.—The Pennsylvania railroad, through consent of the interstate commerce commission, has withdrawn the restrictions under which heavy capacity gondola cars could be used for coal trade only. The removal of this restriction, it was said, will release 3,508 cars of this type on the Pennsylvania system for the mill trade and for transportation of other commodities requiring open-top equipment.

Catawissa.—Claiming damages of $15,000 for injuries sustained when his son, Donald, was struck by an automobile truck of Ludwick & Rhawn, Ambrose Fisher, of this place, began suit.

Montrose.—While hunting near here, George Rose, of Bridgewater, accidentally shot his nephew, Harry Rose, in the hip.

Mifflintown.—Eight Juniata county schools have been closed because of their inability to get teachers.

Kingston.—First skating of the year was enjoyed by residents of the Ligonier valley when the pond here was frozen over.

Hazleton.—A. D. Thomas, principal of the high school here since 1916, has been named acting superintendent of the city schools to succeed the late Dr. A. Harman.

PLAN HOME FOR RECORDS OF U. S.

ARCHIVES BUILDING IS TO BE ERECTED ON TWO BLOCKS ON THE MALL.

CONGRESS PROVIDED FOR IT

New Structure Will Make Available Much Space in Government Departments and Save Large Sums Now Paid in Rentals.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The United States is probably the most careless government on earth so far as its official records are concerned. A great fire here at the national capital might—probably would—destroy practically all these records. Of course the government would still live, but such a loss would cause endless embarrassment.

But a better day is dawning. An archives building is to be provided. Congress at last session made provision for it. Announcement has just been made that the government has obtained options on two full blocks fronting the Mall, two blocks from the treasury.

The new-building will contain about 8,000,000 square feet and will house all government records. At the beginning the building will not present a very beautiful appearance, because it has been decided to leave the outside decorations and finish until the price of materials falls. The main effort will be to complete a building that will be adequate to house the government records and keep them safe from fire and the weather.

Will Save Much Money.

The completion of the archives building will release a great deal of space in the government departments which is now used for dead files, and will mean that much more space will be available to clerical help. With the additional space it is thought that the government will discontinue the renting of private buildings for government work and thus save many hundreds of thousands of dollars a year.

It is pointed out that one of the greatest examples of an archives building is shown in the land office building, which is now about 90 per cent used for files of the government. This building, it is said, is one of the office buildings in the city worth about a million dollars to build.

The archives building is the crowning of the beautification of the Mall, which was started by the government several years ago. Following the starting of the archives building, it is probable that the public buildings commission will recommend to congress this fall a program for government buildings in Washington that will be in keeping with the beauty and utility of the government's aim and the plans of the fine arts commission.

The government now is paying about $500,000 less a year for the rental of private quarters for government use than it was when the public buildings commission was authorized, it is said. The commission was given an appropriation of $10,000 when it began work and to date has expended less than half of it.

The work of the commission in housing the government bureaus has progressed so favorably during the existence of that body and the lessening of work incident to the war is such, that many of the temporary buildings are to be torn down soon.

Development of the Mall.

It has been announced that Corcoran courts, the council of national defense building and Sanda court, in the state, war and navy department building, will be demolished soon. A new building that will be a distinct addition to the Mall is nearing completion. It is the building in which the works of art owned by the government are to be housed. These valuable works of art are now either stored or are taken care of in the national museum. It is hoped to be able to open this National Gallery of Art yet this fall. The public building commission long ago approved the plans of the department of agriculture for a group of buildings on the south side of the Mall for the use of this department. Only two of these buildings have yet been erected, and the secretary of agriculture and his immediate force continue to occupy the old brick building which has been the headquarters of the department ever since there was such a department. At the coming session of congress an effort will be made to get money to put up another wing of the agricultural group.

It is generally understood that when the several departments empty their valuable records into the new archives building the general building scheme for the departments will be overhauled. Under that scheme as it now exists on paper, the state, the navy and the war departments are to be taken care of in separate buildings, and the old war, state and navy building used for what might be called incidental government purposes. The building commission now seems to believe that it will be possible to do with one less building, but this will depend, of course, on how much room is made in the various departments by the removal of the old records.

A Doubt.

"Isn't running for office a contagious disease?" "I don't know. It isn't always catching."

IT TAKES THE STARCH OUT OF A FELLOW

Working Hard Every Day Without Let-up Wears You Out in Time

SOMETIMES YOU NEED A TONIC

Pepto-Mangan Makes Rich, Red Blood and Lifts You Out of Bad-Health Ruts

There are days when you feel down-right sick. You think you couldn't feel any worse. Yet, as far as you know, there's nothing the matter with you. From the time you get up in the morning till you go to bed at night you are tired. You feel as though you'd like to sit down and do nothing. You look tired and pale and haggard. You get careless about your dress.

No wonder! Your blood is all clogged up with poison. Your power or resistance is at a low ebb. Your blood needs food. It takes the help that the vitalizing tonic, Pepto-Mangan, will give it. Instead of feeling exhausted and tired out for months, you will soon pick right up and feel well and strong again. And with good red blood you are able to fight off ailments.

Pepto-Mangan is widely and heartily endorsed by physicians. It is effective and easy to take. It is prepared in both liquid and tablet form and you can take one or the other and receive the same benefits.

Sold at any drug store. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's". Ask for it by the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package.

State Department of Health

"Quarantine of cases of venereal infection will not be made by boards of health throughout the state, except where the character, occupation or neglect of those infected make them public health menaces."

This statement was made today, by Dr. Leon Gans, chief of the genito-urinary division of the State Health Department.

The Department, through local boards of health, has been conducting an intensive fight against "social diseases" in an effort to lower the number of infections in the state and wipe out all sources of possible infection.

Recent activities on the part of the Health Department in quarantining houses occupied by persons suffering from venereal diseases, when necessary to safe-guard the community, have caused a falling off of applications for treatment at the twenty nine venereal clinics established by the Pennsylvania State Health Department, according to Dr. Gans.

The sem quarantine regulations used in smallpox now apply to venereal cases where there is danger of infection. This is given as a reason for the decrease.

Dr. Gans declared, today however that "no patient applying to a State Clinic, a hospital clinic, or a physician for treatment will be quarantined."

"The disease can be acquired innocently and the quarantine precautions" he explained, "have been taken to protect the general public health."

SENATOR HARDING'S BEST MINDS

According to Howard M. Daugherty, who knows everything, past, present and future, in regard to Mr. Harding, the invitation to "the best minds in America" to discuss with the President-elect his League of Nations programme have gone out and no representatives of President Wilson or supporter of the convenant as drawn is included in the number. We may get a fair idea of the gentleman's appreciation of intellectual excellence from the fact that the Democrats summoned embrace Senators Reed of Missouri and Shields of Tennessee, both irreconcilables who have been repudiated by their party at home.

Two of the Republicans chosen for conference are likewise disqualified. Senators Hiram Johnson and Borah are opposed to a League of Nations of any description and are savagely hostile to the one now in existence. They can offer nothing to the discussion except an axe or a bludgeon. For helpful suggestions the Social Democrats of Germany in devising their new Government might as well on this principle have gone to Hozelzollerns.

It seems as if President-elect Harding's idea of a person of good mind is one absolutely and unequivocally opposed to the League of Nations. He interprets that no one of mental capacity has had anything to do with the League. President-elect Harding wants to muster up all the "best minds" opposed to a League of Peace. That is what he means but he doesn't say it as he means nd he never has and he never will because he leaves others do his thinking for him and his selection of the "best minds" and his actions show this to be a fact.

Do you know that Fulton didn't invent the steamboat? You teachers? James Rumsey, of Shepherdstown, W. Va. a few miles below Hancock Md., invented the little steam boat and made the first practical demonstration in October A. D. 1783 on the Potomac river and another practical demonstration on December 3, 1887 at the same place. A monument is erected to his memory on the bank of the Potomac at Shepherdstown. That's worth knowing, Fulton being better off financially got the patent. Rumsey was a poor man but a man with brains and not money.

A bunch of Gypsy horse traders passed through here a few days ago and sold Tom Perin one of their best horses for ten dollars and in a few hours the horse died. Tom got the Constable and overtook the band of Gypsies camping on the roadside and arrested the fellow and returned him to Centerville for trial. The prisoner was taken before Squire Rose a ris-tant relative of Tom's who, after hearing the evidence in the case, decided that Tom was a greenhorn and had no response. This bad trade just about cleaned up all the surplus money in Centerville.

The fact that most healthy people are happy people cannot be disputed; but it is a known fact that people who are ill, are easily irritated.

There is a reason why people are healthy, happy and thrifty. Likewise, must there be a cause for dis-ease, discontent and irritable natures.

An examination of the spine will disclose one of the two things: Either a normal spine with every vertebra in proper alignment, that is, in juxtaposition with the vertebra above and the vertebra below—representing Health, Harmony and Comfort; or a distorted spine with various subluxations (slightly misplaced bones of the spine) causing diminished inter-vertebral foramina (small openings between the bones of the spine) which result in the impingement (pinching) of nerve trunks which extend to vital tissues and organs, thereby shutting off the life force that is generated in the Brain—the result will be dis-ease, discomfort and disagreeable dispositions.

By studying the accompanying cuts, carefully, you will at once understand how these different conditions are caused, and how CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS will permit nature to restore your health to 100%.

HELP FROM THE HELPLESS

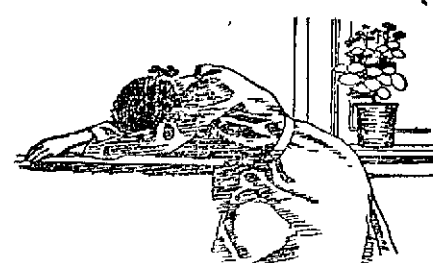

Responding to the appeals of speculators and politicians, the Governors of various Western and Southern States are to visit Washington next week for the purpose of urging Secretary of the Treasury Houston to revive the War Finance Corporation so that grain and cotton may be bought, stored and marketed by government to the profit of growers and middlemen. If he refuses to act, as is expected, Congress will be asked to make the matter compulsory.

With the explanation that they do not like the word "nationalization," which reminds them of Lenin and Trotsky, Senator Calder and Edge have served notice on the coal operators that if they fail to remedy present conditions in the trade before the meeting of Congress that body will be advised to establish national supervision of the industry, whatever that may mean. It is national supervision of cotton and grain-growing that the Governors have in mind, although their purpose is to serve the interests of a class, whereas the Senators named profess to be working in behalf of the public at large.

Many times of late there has been evidence of the breakdown of government in various parts of the world. Laws, customs and official agencies that formerly operated with reasonable precision if at once failed. Here we have suggestions of the collapse of productive and commercial initiative and enterprise. Just as government everywhere has been forced to confess its shortcomings, business comes impinging on the scene and demands aid from the helpless. It wants something more than a strong arm to lean upon. It must have sustenance and control.

We do not know what President-elect Harding meant when he said he was going to take the Government out of business and put business in the Government, but if the scheming now under way is a correct interpretation of his idea we shall presently see the blind leading the blind on a scale never before attempted in time of peace.

Bill Hellwanger says the world most certainly is getting better. He forgot and left a quart of fine twelve year old liquor at his estate post Saturday night and found it still there Sunday morning. He says, better of worse he never expects to be that on this occasion makes him shudder.

When a Woman is Nervous—Worried

Most women neglect their health, and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

WILKES - BARRE, PA.—"A few years ago I went down in health; my nerves were bad and I became very weak and thin and would have severe pains in my head. I also suffered with backaches. I could not sleep at night I was so nervous, and was not able to do any work. I doctored and took remedies but could find nothing that would give me any relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and this brought me restored to health. I am now much better than I have been previously. I know now how hard the 'Prescription' is in my case I feel safe in recommending it." Mrs. MARY SWARTZ, 1000 10th St.

Raw Furs Have Fallen in Price.

The raw fur market has taken quite a tumble recently. The first price lists have just reached us and in scanning the quotations we find that first class skunk pelts are quoted at only $2.00 for Pennsylvania variety. Minks are quoted at $6.50; Raccoons, $3.00; Opossum, $1.00; Red fox, $7.50; Grey fox, $2.50; Wild Cat $4.00. These furs of first class variety last year were selling for triple that price.

In Carleton, Ill. a cop arrested a motorcyclist for delaying traffic when he testified he was going at the rate of fifty miles an hour.

FROZEN CREDIT, EAST AND WEST

Non-Partisan League finance and the Wall Street articles are not so unlike after all. In North Dakota the State banks are glutted with postdated notes of farmers held as security for loans used in promoting various Socialistic enterprises of the sure-things order. It was the idea that these undertakings were to be liquidated from the proceeds of the wheat crop, but the price of wheat has fallen and under instructions from headquarters the leaguers are now refusing to sell their grain. Their notes therefore, are going to protest, to the sorrow of the banks, nine of them having closed.

This is a form of frozen credit like that from which we are jauntily informed, the operators on the New York Stock Exchange have just been almost miraculously delivered. Things have been going poorly with stocks ever since the great Republican victory, and just as securities seemed to be the only article that anybody had to offer in the market place an engelic banking group appeared and bought 3,000,000 low-priced shares which a speculator had been carrying, with banking assistance for many weary months. Instantly there was a rebound in the market, shorts began to cover money roared cheaply and the public is asked to believe that a transaction involving margins of perhaps $18,000,000 cured Wall Street of its distemper and restored public confidence.

One of these days we shall see a pleasing development of the same kind in North Dakota. The farmers will loosen up on their wheat, money will circulate freely and the receivers of the failed banks will get what is coming to them, perhaps. But the losses sustained, of which no public account is taken will not furnish the surest possible foundation for prosperity. Republican rule will bring it all back.

Guy Reed explained to the crowd at the postoffice yesterday that the reason he was such a liar he was asked so many questions. His explanation did not seem to satisfy.

Everybody except Mart Heiney seems to be hurrying toward eternity at a very rapid rate. Mart seems to be moving leisurely toward this destination.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Coupe

The Ford Coupe is surely the Salesman's car. Thousands of them are bought every year by firms employing traveling salesmen. Many firms buy fifty or one hundred at a time, because they know, from experience, that the Ford Coupe increases the efficiency of the salesman at a minimum of expense.

Contractors, builders, collectors, solicitors, physicians all find the Ford Coupe the most convenient as well as the most economical among motor cars. Lowest in purchase price, lowest in operating costs, and backed by the Ford Service organization—coupled with the durability of the car itself—these furnish the reason for the Ford popularity.

Let us send you a copy of "Ford—A business Utility." It tells what other concerns have learned about the Ford in business service. But, better still, let us have you order today. I personally pay very careful attention to the proper fitting of a nose piece or bridge. I see that it has the exact shape and style to fit snugly to the one particular point on the crest of the nose, so the pupil of the eye can exactly conform with the center or middle of the lens, and the object will then be deposited at the proper place on the Retina, and thereby your error in Refraction will be corrected, and you will have a perfect vision or sight, and a pair of glasses that will harmonize with your face. The sight is so often interfered with by disease of the Vital organs, "Creeping disease," of slow progress, the nerves which enter into the eyes, the upper and lower lids, which control the muscular action, very often become impaired by disease, need to be recognized and properly treated. THIS is a new story of the Storm Country, that magic land of mystery and romance where readers first made the acquaintance of "Tess." Many will remember how they laughed with her and at her, and how they cried over her.

"Tess" brought fame and fortune to Mary Pickford.

Mrs. White has created a new heroine in this story and has placed her in the same surroundings—the mysterious, lawless squatters of Cayuga lake.

Characters, plot and variety of incident, make it a narrative of compelling charm.

Selected on account of its great qualities of interest and appeal to all readers, as a serial for these columns.

The books of few authors ever achieve a sale of 1,000,000 copies. Fewer still are the authors who live to see such popularity. Yet this talented daughter of the Empire state has lived to see it and the end is not yet, for she continues to write and sales show no diminishment. It all started with "Tess of the Storm Country." That story made the fortune of a magazine for women which ran it serially. Moving picture producers and players have also gained fame and fortune through it. A later romance, "The Shadow of the Sheltering Pines," has another sweet, charming, pathetic little heroine very much like "Tess." We propose that our readers shall become acquainted with her and shall reproduce the story serially. Keep your eyes open for the first installment.

has written some remarkable tales of the squatter folk of Cayuga lake and the more aristocratic residents of Ithaca, N. Y. They have been featured on the stage and in moving pictures. This one will make the author a host of new friends, will make some "star" famous, and will make you love Tony, its heroine. Will soon start as a serial in this publication.

A New Romance of the Storm Country

CHAPTER I.

"Tony"—For Short.

Another winter had lifted its icy fingers from the Storm Country and Lake Cayuga, and an early spring had brought from the South the red-breasted robins and thousands of other birds to build their homes in the Forest city, as Ithaca, N. Y., is well called, for to the south, the east, the west, and even to the north where the lake cut sharply around a corner, broad forests stretched their lengths and heights of leaf and bough on miniature mountains.

One evening on the western side of the railroad tracks, a girl stood before a small building over which, like ropes of green, draped the branches of a weeping willow tree. This building was different from any of the other habitations near it in that it was well painted, and the door stood open all day.

"Twas a strange little girl that gazed up with searching eagerness at the two lighted signs that had arrested her attention. In her arms she held a diminutive guinea pig, and the way she hugged it close demonstrated her love for it.

"THE SALVATION ARMY," she spelled out and thoughtfully considered it.

"Everybody is welcome here," she read slowly. That meant that anyone could enter if he wanted to, she decided, and as Tonnibel Devon did want to go in, she softly tiptoed up the steps and peeped into the room. As there was nobody in sight, she sidled in and looked about.

"Welcome" was curved in letters of red above a table, and the silent young stranger sighed. She couldn't understand how a girl could be really welcome anywhere. Of course her mother liked her and missed her when she was away, but Tony knew of no other place where she was really wanted but the canal boat, called Mary and Dirty Mary for short, which had been her home ever since she could remember.

"Glory be to God in the highest," swung in letters of gold across the right wall, and to the left, "Stand Still and See the Salvation of the Lord," kept her attention a little longer. She didn't know what they meant, but the varied colors shining brilliant in the bright light calmed her turbulent spirit and made her happy. She hugged the pig closer, bent her head and kissed the top of its ear.

"I guess we're in a church, Gussie," she said aloud, "and you mustn't grunt or squeal like you do on the Dirty Mary. It's awful nice and quiet, ain't it, honey?"

"Were you speaking to me?" said a voice from near the door.

Tonnibel Devon struggled to her feet, turned around and saw a young man looking at her. A flame of red rushed over the tanned skin, but because he was smiling and kindly, she smiled back, a dimple coming to life at each corner of her mouth.

"Nope," she flung out in confusion. "I was talkin' to Gussie-Piglet here. Mebbe her and me hadn't ought to be here. You can kick us out if you want to."

Philip MacCauley, the captain of the Salvation army in Ithaca, bowed and then he laughed.

"Every one is welcome here," he quoted, coming forward. "Where'd you come from? I've never seen you before."

"I'm staying up Hoghole way," replied Tony. "I ain't been around Ithaca long. This is an awful nice room, ain't it, huh?"

"Yes, very. We like it," replied the young man. "Sit down; don't be in a hurry. I want to talk to you."

Tonnibel did sit down but not very comfortably. She was embarrassed in the presence of this handsome young stranger abashed in the glamor of his uniform, and all the beauty of him.

With boyish admiration he was contemplating the sparkle of her gray eyes, shaded by long lashes as ebony black as her hair which hung in ringlets to her waist. He decided that she was very pretty and that he liked to have her in the Salvation army quarters.

"Can't you stay for meeting this evening?" he asked presently. "We have singing here."

Tony's eyes deepened almost to lustrous black.

"Oh, I'd love that." Then she shook her head. "Nope," she went on, "I got to go home to mummy. She's all alone! Mebbe when my daddy gets back, I'll come some time and sit clean through the night."

For an instant the smile stayed about the boy's lips, then gravity settled once more over his earnest young face.

"What's done in this place?" she questioned after a while.

"Oh, we sing and read and pray, replied the boy. "We do everything we can to help people. There's such a lot of misery in the world."

"That's as true's you're born," came back promptly from the parted red lips. "I know that because my mother is sick every day, and she cries too. That's misery, ain't it?"

Captain MacCauley was used to tales of woe, but he knew a panacea for them. "Yes, it is so," he said. "Perhaps you could get her to come here some evening! Do you think you could?"

"Daddy wouldn't let her," was the reply, and she lifted unfathomably saddened gray eyes to his. "You see when a man owns a woman, and she don't do the things he tells her to, he beats her, huh?"

There was mute pleading in her expression as she drew back on the bench a little farther away from him. Ah! He might have known that she had been swept along by the relentless tide of brutality. He sighed a little. He had seen enough of ignorant men with their supreme egotism, to know she told the truth.

"Your father is—is—cruel to your mother, then?" he faltered.

She remained in deep thought for the space of a few seconds.

"A swat or two, mebbe more, ain't a killin' thing to women folks," was the response she made confusedly at length.

So unusual had been her answer that Philip MacCauley gazed at her in amazement.

"Have you ever heard of—of God?" he asked finally, his own confusion apparent in the stumble of his tongue.

Tonnibel laughed.

"I hear God d—n more'n a hundred times a day," she replied. "Is that what you mean?"

"Not quite," answered Philip, startled. "No! Not that."

"Then what?" demanded Tony.

"What kind of a God do you mean?"

"One that is good," explained Philip. "There isn't any God but the one who helps—"

"My mummy?" breathed the girl, misty tears shadowing her eyes.

"Yes."

"Where is he, then?" The words shot forth with such insistence that something within Philip MacCauley rose to its demand.

"Some one's got to be good to my mother," the girl ran on before he could speak. "She's sick—and lonely. Oh, I've got to do something for her. Where's your helpein' God, mister?"

"Right here in this place," said Philip, a strange emotion sweeping over him. "In fact there isn't any place where God is not."

"He wouldn't come in a dirty canal boat, would He?" demanded Tony, breathlessly.

Astonished at such crudeness, Captain MacCauley shifted himself about so he faced her squarely. Was it pretended ignorance or innocence in the searching gray eyes? Then he decided that truth was stamped on every line of the upturned face.

"Of course, everywhere," he exclaimed brokenly. "Why, dear child—"

Tony Devon interrupted him swiftly. "Tell me how to manage it," she pleaded. "How can I wheedle your God to the Dirty Mary?"

"To the what?" was the question the boy asked in shocked swiftiness.

"The Dirty Mary," repeated Tony.

"My mummy and me live on a canal boat. Once she was just called 'Mary.' But she's so d—d nasty, Ed calls her the Dirty Mary. She's a nice boat just the same as long as my mummy's there. But I can't see how a clean God could come on 'er. I guess you're foolin' me, mister."

Philip swallowed hard. Then slowly and gently he talked to her, trying to make her understand as best he could what he meant by God, Spirit.

"And you can help your mother, little—what's your name?"

"Tony, just Tonnibel," she mumbled. Then her voice rose and she uttered sharply, "Now tell me how to help my mother."

Philip went to the altar and sorted out a small card.

"This," he said, coming back to her, "has happy loving thoughts written on it. If you think these things all the time—oh how they will help both you and your mother!"

Wonderingly she took it in her fingers. The first thing that met her eyes was a beautiful uplifted face of a man and in his arms was a little lamb. Underneath the picture was printed, "Feed my sheep," and directly under that were the words, "Stand still and see the salvation of the Lord." Once more her eyes sought the face above, a face wherein lay all the pity and love in the world.

Tony Devon caught a glimpse of the lesson he was trying to teach and when he went out of the Salvation army, she held within the depths of her a wonderfully new and utterly strange emotion.

She was panting for breath when she came up the bank of the canal and saw the old man brewing tea.

HAROLD S. SMITH CO.

WE STILL LEAD

On Nov. 1st. we made the startling but frank announcement that we could replace our stock of clothing, shoes and ladies' ready-to-wear for much less than we had paid for it.

THEN WHAT?

We simply slashed our profits to pieces, and come down to the new level at once. The people of Bedford County appreciated this spirit of confidence and fairness and came to us in such numbers that they practically emptied our store of the stock which we bought at "war" prices.

WHAT NOW?

We Lead Again

We have the privilege of announcing that our store is now filled with the finest stock of new merchandise that ever came to Bedford.

It seemed odd to buy new goods NOW but we had to have them and because we could buy them "right" from the best manufacturers who were anxious to sell, we did not hesitate. And, best of all, you can have your choice of the many new articles we are showing at the
